what is nft? non-fungible token

Non-fungible tokens (NFTs) are assets like artworks, digital content, or videos that have been tokenized via a blockchain. Tokens are unique identification codes created from metadata via an encryption function. These tokens are then stored on a digital ledger, while the assets themselves are stored in other places. The connection between the token and the asset is what makes them unique. NFTs can be traded and exchanged for money, cryptocurrencies, or other NFTs—it all depends on the value the market and owners have placed on them. For instance, you could draw a smiley face on a banana, take a picture of it (which has metadata attached to it), and tokenize it on a blockchain. Whoever has the private keys to that token owns whatever rights you have assigned to it.

what is nft marketplace

An NFT marketplace is an online platform where users can discover, buy, sell, and trade Non-Fungible Tokens. These tokens represent ownership of unique digital assets, such as digital art, music, virtual real estate, collectibles, and more. Unlike cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin or Ethereum, which are fungible and can be exchanged on a one-to-one basis, NFTs are one-of-a-kind and cannot be replicated.

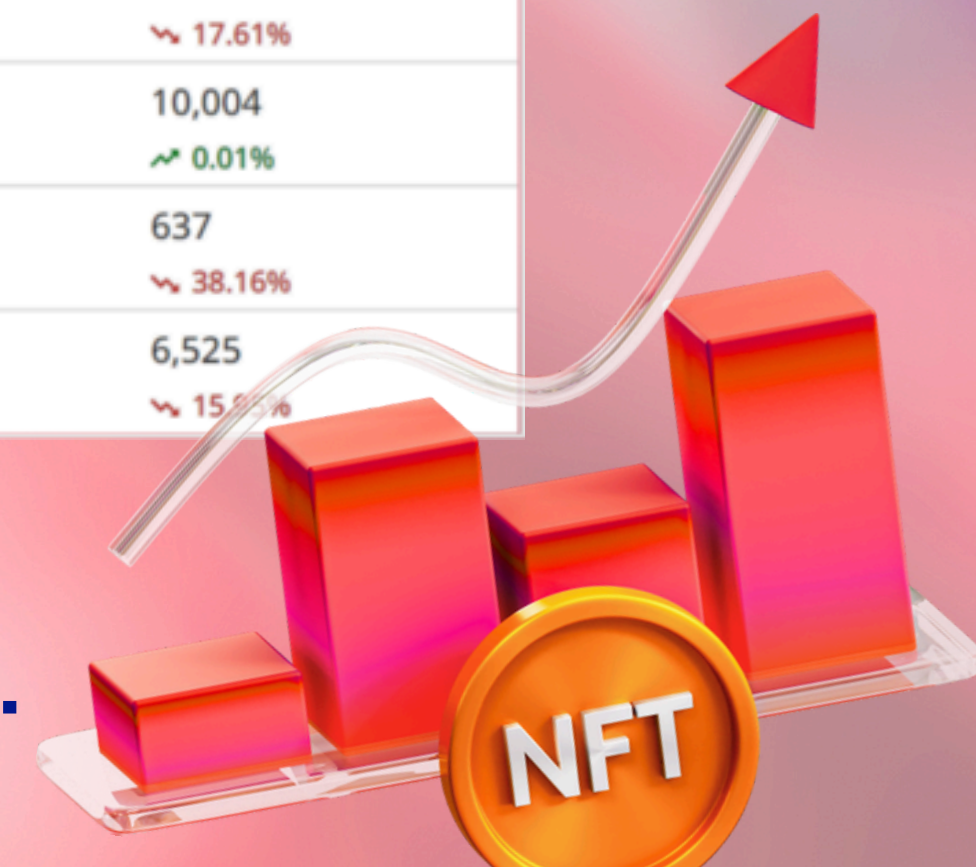

NFT marketplaces act as intermediaries that facilitate the interaction between creators and collectors in the NFT space.
